What is a Long-Term Care Ombudsman?

The primary duty of an ombudsman is to protect the rights of individuals by investigating and resolving problems and grievances, provide information, and work with institutions, organizations and agencies to increase their responsiveness to the people they serve. An ombudsman acts on behalf of persons who need help advocating for themselves.

Residents of long-term care facilities sometimes have little or no contact with the larger community and may feel a loss of control, dignity, and self-worth. The Long-Term Care Ombudsman serves as an advocate and helps resolve problems and concerns. The goal of the Wyoming Long-Term Care Ombudsman Program is to improve the quality of life for long-term care residents and/or recipients.

What Does the Ombudsman Do?

- Receives, investigates and attempts to resolve problems or complaints affecting residents of long-term care facilities.
- Promotes resident, family and community involvement in long-term care.
- Promotes community education and awareness of the needs of long-term care recipients.
- Coordinates efforts with other agencies and organizations concerned with long-term care.
- Identifies issues and problem areas in long-term care and recommends needed changes.

What does this program cost?

The Ombudsman program is funded by state and federal dollars and is provided at no cost to the consumer.
